THE GREAT STATE CONVENTION HAS CLOSED.

"WEALTH IS NOTHING, FAME IS NOTHING; MANHOOD IS EVERYTHING."

The Young Men's Christian Association Labors to Make Manly Men—
Dixon Has Greatly Profited by Entertaining the Convention
---Auditorium Has Been Crowded With People.

"Wanted—A Man." The world wants a man who is educated all over; whose nerves are brought to their acute sensibility; whose brain is cultured, keen, incisive, penetrating, broad, liberal, deep; whose hands are deft; whose eyes are alert, sensitive, microscopic; whose heart is tender, broad, magnanimous, true, full of the spirit of Christ. Such a man it is the aim of the Young Men's Christian Association to make, and nobly are they doing their work.

The state convention in Dixon has closed. It brought to our city nearly 500 Christian young men interested in their fellows and laboring to make life broader, more complete and full of happiness for each other. Some of the most earnest and helpful words ever spoken by man to men have rung from the pulpits of our city and they have sunk into the hearts of men to brighten and make more fruitful their lives.

Saturdays Exercises.

Saturday's program, like all others,
was very complete and although covering a variety of topics was centralized and definite in its aim.

Robert E. Speer of New York, the young man whose equal as a speaker and man with an idea is seldom found, spoke of the cultivation of the prayer at the Baptist church. The young ladies of the several churches did the serving and in every instance the occasion was greatly enjoyed and ended with toasts full of wit and solid sense.

The representation at the Methodist church was of course the largest, there being over one hundred seated at the tables. N. G. VanSant of Sterling was toastmaster and he was a good one.
He said at the outset that he must apologize for Dixon. He didn't find things as he expected when he came.
"I have been reading the Sterling papers for the past twenty years and I expected a man would have to have a guard when he came here. I find the people quite enlightened." Many bright stories illustrated his talk and none of the speakers could resist a thrust at President Ganse, the toastmaster of the night before. In commenting upon this Mr. VanSant told of the policeman found dead upon the streets of Chicago, and whom the coroner's jury said "Came to his death in the accidental discharge of his duty."
There were six responses to toasts.
Secretary Messer of Chicago toasted
"The Women" and spoke of the minister of whom it was said "he is a good preacher, but he has nothing to deliver and no delivery." It is not so with the ladies tonight," he said, "they had life and afterwards presented the matter of gifts for the state work. As a result $3,162 was raised for the work in Illinois.

"The importance of boy's work in the light of recent studies" was vividly brought out by E. M. Robinson Saturday morning. "A boy," he said, is but an open vessel into which all he contains must be poured. If he has any politics, it is his father's. If he has any religion, it is his mother's. His friends and neighbors pour in their portion, his teacher stirs it up and the preacher seasons it. A boy is but an imitator until he reaches the stage of adolescent manhood. What is needed for the making of good men is thorough and efficient boy's work in the Association, and the time to do it is when the iron is hot."

L. A. Bowman, one of the state secretaries and the man who so ably superintended the entire program of the convention, spoke of the opportunity of work for boys in the Associations.
He proved, unquestionably, that the Junior department was a necessity and one of the greatest opportunities for good work to be found.

Specific Association Work.

In his address Saturday afternoon
Robert E. Speer spoke of "Young Men and the Study of the Bible." Various methods of study were suggested, but the need was made emphatic. He said: "Bible study will do a world of good for us just in the way of broadening and beautifying our lives;
it is unequalled in the development of character and the control and discipline of the will." "It will cost something, my brothers, to know the bible as Jesus knew it," he said, "but I trust
I may be made strong enough to pay the price; wouldn't you?"

W. A. Magee, state secretary of Iowa, spoke on the development of the active member, its necessity and various methods.

Robert Weldensall spoke of the plan and purpose of country work, saying that in it there was an immense power for good. Saturday marked the close of 33 years in which Mr. Weldensall has been engaged in Association work and the convention passed a resolution congratulating him upon his efforts and the results.

Sectional Teas

The convention delegates were entertained by sectional teas Saturday afternoon. The railroad and city department men were banqueted at the Methodist church, the student delegates at the Presbyterian, the county and town delegates at the Lutheran and the physical department delegates something to deliver and they delivered it." Each speaker had a message of deep meaning expressed by Mr.

Bowman when he said: "It is my desire that there may take hold of us an intense enthusiasm for the Association work."

Words of Encouragement.

The convention hall was again crowded with people Saturday night.
After the opening exercises the Association quartet sang "Steal Away to Jesus." Their magnificent voices, so full of melody and feeling, continually charm the audience.

W. E. Edmunds of Jacksonville gave a concise and interesting report of the jubilee convention held at Boston last spring, which closes fifty years of Association work in the United States.

Secretary A. M. Bruner spoke encouragingly of the work being done at the reformatory at Pontiac. I. A.
Humberd of Waukegan for a number of years has been successfully conducting county work in Iriquois county and described the methods he used.

Dixon's First Secretary.

Two interesting telegrams were read by the chairman, the first being from Phil Bevis, the first secretary of the Dixon Association. The dispatch was
as follows:

"Duluth, Minn., Oct. 19.
"Greetings to the Association and Convention. First Thes. 3:12 and 13.
MR AND MRS. PHIL BEVIS."
The text mentioned in the dispatch is
as follows:

"12 And the Lord make you to increase and abound in love one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do unto you:

"13 To the end that he may establish your hearts unblameable in holiness before God, even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all his saints."

Governor Yates' Greeting.

The following telegram was also read and received enthusiastic applause, as did the first:

"Jacksonville, Ill., Oct. 19.
"To the greatest and most influential state convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of Illinois: It affords me great pleasure to extend to you a most true and most hearty congratulation."
RICHARD YATES."

The Crowning Achievement.

Fred B. Smith, formerly of New York, now of Chicago, delivered the principal address of Saturday evening.
He took for his subject "The Supreme Aim and Crowning Achievement of the Young Men's Christian Association," and said in part: Many institutions organized with a high and mighty purpose have dwindled down to insignificance, but we can say that the Young

EMPHATIC TALK.

The Kind that Carries Conviction to Every North Dixon Reader.

Conviction must follow such emphatic proof as is given here. The testimony of North Dixon residents should satisfy the most skeptical. Here is a North Dixon case. Read it and see if doubt can exist in the face of this evidence.

Mrs. A. Fine, of 169 Chamberlain Street, North Dixon, says:

"When I went to Leake Bro's drug store for Doan's Kidney Pills I had very little expectation of the treatment doing me any good, for I had suffered so long with kidney complaint and was suffering so severely at the time that I had almost given up hope of ever obtaining relief. I am averse to the use of proprietary medicines, but my husband had heard so much about Doan's Kidney Pills that he insisted upon me trying them. I did so and was promptly benefitted. If all sufferers from kidney ailments could be induced to use Doan's Kidney Pills, kidney complaint in any of its various forms would disappear."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

Women and Jewels.

Jewels, candy, flowers, man—that is the order of a woman's preferences. Jewels form a magnet of mighty power to the average woman. Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often ruined in the strenuous efforts to make or save the money to purchase them. If a woman will risk her health to get a coveted gem, then let her fortify herself against the insidious consequences of coughs, colds, and bronchial affections by the regular use of Dr. Boschee's German Syrup. It will promptly arrest consumption in its early stages and heal the affected lungs and bronchial tubes and drive the dread disease from the system. It is not a cure-all, but it is a certain cure for coughs, colds and all bronchial troubles. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at E. M. Bunnell's Drug Store. Get Green's Special Almanac.

This Will Interest Many.

It Happened in a Drug Store.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says Mr. C. R. Grandin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if it did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy." It is for sale by Rowland Bros.

NOT YET SUBJUGATED

Filipino Is Full of Schemes to Carry on the War Against Uncle Sam.

ONE OF THEM NIPPED IN THE BUD

Which Would Have Ended in Another Massacre—Priest and Presidente Involved.

Manila, Oct. 21.—Owing to the vigilance of Lieutenant Thomas M. Baines, Jr., of the Ninth Infantry, another slaughter of United States troops by insurgents has been averted. It seems that Lieutenant Baines discovered a prisoner re-entering a cell at Carabiga, island of Samar, where several were confined, through a hole that had been cut in the wall. An investigation showed a plan to fill the jail with boulders and to call the guard—which would be necessary to get the door open—and then to attack the garrison. It also developed that the instigators were a priest and the presidente, both of whom have been arrested, together with several other prominent persons. Other attempts have been discovered, but fortunately frustrated, at Pambujan and other points in Samar. Several persons have been arrested in connection with these.

They Evidently Don't Love Us.

Reinforcements are being rushed to Samar. Three hundred and thirty marines, under Lieutenant Colonel Mancill C. Goodrell, have gone there on board the United States cruiser New York, and two battalions of the Twelfth Infantry will start immediately for the same destination. United States officers from other provinces that were supposed to be pacified have recently arrived in Manila, and they say that the news of United States disasters spread like wildfire among the natives, who scarcely attempt to conceal their delight.

Steel Was Intended for Bolos.

The Manila constabulary discovered a large quantity of steel wagon springs which was being shipped to various districts. Investigation showed that these were to be used in manufacturing bolos, which are a sort of long knife. The troops in Samar anticipate hard fighting. Brigadier General Jacob H. Smith, who is in command, has visited most of the posts and instructed the commanders that the insurrection must be hammered out and General Lukban, the insurgent leader, captured. Already the movement of troops has begun.

Lacuna Presents a Grievance.

General Lacuna, who surrendered last May, has complained to General Chaffee that the terms upon which he and his force surrendered have not been respected by the United States. He exhibits a document signed by himself and General Frederick Funston in which he and his force are granted immunity in respect of all acts committed contrary to the laws of war. Since this document was executed several of Lacuna's officers and men have been tried, condemned and sentenced to death for killing United States prisoners. General Funston says that when it was signed he gave Lacuna orally to understand that the killing of United States prisoners was excepted. Lacuna admits that something was said on the subject, but says no thorough understanding was reached, and he considers the written agreement binding.

AUTHORITIES ARE DISTURBED.

No Substantial Reduction of the Force in the Philippines.

Washington, Oct. 21.—One of the questions that will require the prompt and serious consideration of Secretary Root on his return to this city this week will be the military situation in the Philippines. The recent serious outbreaks in the island of Samar have disturbed the authorities considerably. It is realized that they may prove a serious setback to the plans of the administration for the pacification of the Philippines and the extension of United States sovereignty.

There is no longer any prospect of a substantial reduction in the strength of the Philippine army for some time to come. In fact the latest advices from General Chaffee contain arguments against any reduction of the army at this time, except as required by the expiration of enlistments. As pointed out by General Corbin in his annual report, the army will lose nearly 2,000 men a month on this account. The war department officials are now considering how to meet this prospective deficiency without impairing the efficiency of the military establishment in the Philippines.

Washington, Oct. 21.—The names of the killed of Company E, Ninth Infantry, in the engagement with bolomen on the Candara river, island of Samar, last Wednesday are: Edward F. Burns, Orville J. Dromgoole, Carl M. Johnson, William Loftin, John Leopold, William H. Ritchie, George Teacht and Charlie Wilson. Two others, William F. Gormley, first sergeant, and John I. Kelley, died of wounds, and of the wounded the serious cases are Eugene De Witt, Robert Hampton, Martin G. Lyons, John M. Russell and Henry Sterle.

Yare's Crop of Hay on Fire.

LaCrosse, Wis., Oct. 21.—Late yesterday afternoon fire was discovered in the hay lands which surround this city. The flames are now burning everything before them and the firemen are powerless. Upon these lands are stacked thousands of tons of hay, all directly in the path of the flames. Although the loss cannot be estimated at present it is thought it will be enormous.

American Missionary Association.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—The fifty-fifth annual meeting of the American Missionary association will begin tomorrow in the First Congregational church at Oak Park (Chicago suburb).

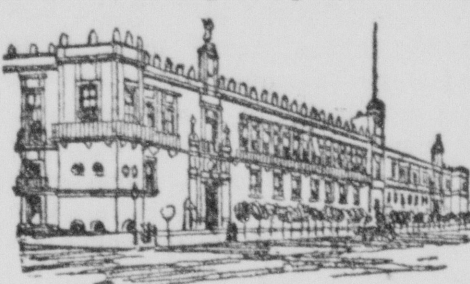

Seems To Be an Exodus.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—President Ban Johnson last night definitely announced that the American League has already under contract twenty-one National League players.

CITY OF MEXICO THE HOST

And Delegates to the Pan-American Congress Are the Guests.

City of Mexico, Oct. 21.—The Pan-American delegates passed Sunday out of doors in the bright Mexican sunshine and taking in sights of the city.

MEXICAN NATIONAL PALACE.

This morning the delegates visited the quarters of the general secretaries of the conference, inscribing their names and addresses. This afternoon they will hold an informal meeting for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements, but will not meet for a formal inaugural session until 4 p. m. tomorrow.

Tomorrow night all the delegates and their families will be entertained in the presidential apartments at the national palace to witness fireworks and an illumination, and listen to a serenade by the best military bands.

DUKE AND DUCHESS AT HALIFAX

Nova Scotians Welcome the Royal Guests in Most Royal Manner.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 21.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York and the royal party reached the last stage of their transatlantic journey Saturday when the royal train rolled into the capital of Nova Scotia. The royal couple was presented with an address by Mayor Hamilton, and one by Rev. Principal Forest, on behalf of Dalhousie university. After the presentation of the addresses the visitors drove to the provincial parliament buildings, where the duke laid the corner stone of the monument to be erected in memory of Nova Scotia soldiers who fell in the South African war.

After the laying of the corner stone the procession re-formed and the visitors proceeded to H. M. S. Ophir, the royal yacht lying in the stream. There was a state dinner on board the Ophir Saturday evening and later an official reception in the legislative council chamber. At no place on the tour have there been more enthusiasm, greater crowds or a more hearty welcome.

THINK THEY HAVE THE MAN

Who Is Responsible for the Death of Superintendent O'Brien.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 21.—Some days ago John O'Brien, superintendent of one of the departments of the Richmond Locomotive works, was shot and instantly killed while standing at the gate of the works, and a few minutes before a fellow-workman was shot in the head and seriously wounded.

The affair remained a mystery until Saturday, when R. T. Edwards, of Chelsea Hill, opposite the works, was arrested. Edwards stands charged with the murder of O'Brien. He denies the charge. He had been employed at the works, discharged and since unemployed.

Dead Under an Automobile.

Central Valley, N. Y., Oct. 21.—While ascending Hill Hill on the road from Central Valley to West Point the 1,800-pound automobile in which F. H. Benedict and a party of friends were traveling was overturned and Benedict was almost instantly killed. He is a son of E. C. Benedict, the intimate friend of former President Cleveland. Grenville Kane, another of the party, had his left arm fractured.

CONSCIENCESTRICKEN

Woman, Living in Sin, Seeks the Terrible Solace of Self-Immolation.

SHE SUCCEEDS IN HER OBJECT

Her Paramour Fails to Die with Her, and Lives to Tell the Sad Story.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—While grieving over the criminal life she was leading with Dr. Orville Burnette, a prominent Chicago dentist, Mrs. Charlotte Nichol, wife of W. L. Nichols, Jr., commercial agent of the Nashville, Chattanooga, and St. Louis railroad, committed suicide yesterday in the Marlborough hotel. Burnette also tried to end his life at the same time, but was unsuccessful. The two were found in their room, both stretched across the bed, the woman dead and Burnette with his neck pierced with a hat pin, a bottle of morphine clutched in his hand and the six jets in the suite. Dr. Burnette is still alive and has been arrested.

Loved Him Better Than Honor.

In one of the rooms was found a note written by the woman which told of her reason for the act. She said: "To Whom It May Concern: I did it because I loved him better than anything on earth, and he loved me, and we could not be separated. Good-bye. 'CHARLOTTE'."

The note, supplemented by a statement made by Dr. Burnette, tells of the tragedy enacted by the two sinners. According to the dentist's story, he met Mrs. Nichol while she was yet a young girl, in Nashville, Tenn., and fell in love with her. Burnette moved to Chicago and married several years afterward.

Burnette Tells His Story.

"Our love was still strong for each other," said Burnette, "and she moved to Chicago to be near me. We were together nearly every day. There seemed, however, to be a constant remorse on her part on account of the dark life she was leading. Saturday we went down town together, and after having several drinks she proposed suicide to me. We went to the Marlborough hotel and she produced a bottle of morphine she had hidden in her dress. She again asked me to die with her, and I consented. Then she swallowed nearly all the contents of the bottle and handed it to me. I drank what was left, but believing that I had not taken enough to prove fatal I tried to end my life by sticking the hat pin into my neck. I saw this was also going to be a failure, so I turned all the gas on and laid down to die."

Here's Where the Blow Falls.

Burnette stated that his wife knew nothing of his attachment for Mrs. Nichol. A policeman who was sent to the Nichol home at 6518 Minerva avenue last night to notify Nichol of the tragedy found no one there but the two little children of the dead woman, one a boy of 8 and the other a little girl of 4 years. They told the policeman that their father was out looking for their mother, who had been missing all Saturday night and yesterday.

REMARKABLE RELIGIOUS MEET

Ex-Ball Player Sunday Does Great Work in the Vineyard.

Exira, Ia., Oct. 21.—One of the most remarkable religious meetings ever held in western Iowa has just closed here. Three weeks ago Rev. W. A.

WILLIAM SUNDAY.

Sunday, of Chicago, who played ball with the white stockings, and F. G. Fischer, his singer, began a series of meetings in a tabernacle in the park. There are four churches here for the 1,000 inhabitants, yet 200 persons declared for a religious life as a result of the revival. A druggist who had a permit to sell liquors attended these meetings and at their close he burned up his permit and all the playing cards he had in his store. Now he carries a stock of Bibles.

Crew of the Vessel Was Saved.

Buffalo, Oct. 21.—The vessel that foundered in Saturday morning's gale off Long Point was the steamer Swallow, lumber laden, bound from Emerson, Lake Superior, to Buffalo. The Northern Pacific barge Walter Scranton picked up the Manitou Saturday evening and towed her into port last night.

Lord	RH	Hoefer
Bovey	FB	Lawyer

Referees were Walter Page for first half and Mr. Hea for the second. Our sub, George Dutcher got no chance for even a tackle, all original team playing throughout. Freeport won the toss and took choice of goal. Minnehan kicked off. Freeport got the ball which was soon captured by North Dixon. Then by steady line plays they, through Dutcher, made the first touchdown in four minutes from lining up. Again Freeport kicked off, Dutcher getting the ball and carrying it back fifteen yards, when by steady tacking and back fielding, both sides showing some excellent work, the ball was forced over Freeport's forty yard line. Here Bovey broke out of a mass play and winning a fine race, made a touchdown. Freeport again kicked off to Price, who succeeded in carrying the ball back ten yards. Then by steady gains by every member of the team North Dixon carried Freeport off their feet, and scored the third touchdown just at the close of the first fifteen minute half. Score stood North Dixon 15; Freeport 0.

Freeport kicked off to Minnehan, who carried it back 15 yards, and then our boys using a succession of formations that Freeport could not solve, won another touchdown by forcing Lord over the line. Freeport again kicked off to Minnehan, who carried it back 10 yards and following up the same successful style of playing soon added another touchdown to their list. Goal was kicked. At the last kick off by Freeport, Capt. Minnehan again getting the ball, our boys were again starting for Freeport's goal line when time was called. The final score was North Dixon 28; Freeport 0.

Both teams played a strong game but North Dixon boys showed the superior drill of their captain, Miller, who trusting them to win this victory, was viewing the great Illinois Chicago-Universities game at Chicago.

Freeport will play our boys the return game at Athletic Park on November 9th.

A Generous Offer.

Since R. J. Bennett has identified himself with Dixon as a resident here (and even before that) he has shown his generosity in a number of ways connected with various enterprises for the advancement and betterment of our city. To him is largely due the splendid auditorium that graces Assembly Park.

The particulars of his latest offer were handed us too late for use on Saturday. In substance, Mr. Bennett makes an offer to the trustees of the struggling new Congregational church at the West End, to this effect. When $1,500 in subscriptions to its building fund are paid into the treasury, he will add thereto $250; and when $500 more is paid in (2,000 in all) he will add another $250, making his donation $500. The offer, which is a most generous one, is made provided the first mentioned amount is raised by Dec. 31, the last amount by March 1, 1902.

The sale will commence, corner of Galena and River street, tomorrow. Full particulars are given in circular enclosed.

Death Under Car Wheels.

Glenn Roberts, a brakeman on the Sterling-Barstow branch of the C. B. & Q. railroad, was killed between Denrock and Lyndon Thursday morning by falling off the train. It was not known that he was dead until 2:30 that afternoon when the body was discovered lying along the track at Hamilton's crossing by an old man who was walking along the track.

Roberts had been working for the Q on this train about three months. He was a young man of nineteen years of age, and was said by all to be an especially fine character.

From the evidence it is evident that Roberts fell off the end of the train, and that in striking the fence on either side of the cattle guards, he rebounded and was struck in the head by a corner of a car.

An unknown man was killed by the cars between Sterling and the Nelson bridge sometime Thursday evening. The man was found by the crew of one of the Northwestern freights and brought to Sterling about 10 o'clock.

The man was badly mangled. His head was crushed in and both legs were cut off. One leg was taken off just above the knee and the other below the knee. His entire body was bruised and disfigured.

At the coroner's inquest Saturday it was stated that the deceased had given his name as Cale or Cahill, stating that his brother was a foreman on the Peoria branch of the Northwestern and that he was on his way to Nelson to get a job. He was buried Saturday in the potter's field of the Sterling cemetery.

Called Lorillard's Bluff.

Heavy better as he was, Pierre Lorillard once met his match when he ran up against gray bearded James E. Kelly, who introduced bookmaking into this country. It was nearly a generation ago and at Jerome park. Kelly was laying 2½ to 1 against one of Lorillard's horses in a big stake event. The news went to Mr. Lorillard, seated on his coach on the clubhouse lawn.

"I'll just take a little of the conceit out of that saved off Irishman," said Lorillard to Wright Sanford, Newbold Morris, John Hunter and a few other congenial spirits. They started for the ring together.

"I'll lay $10,000 on my horse at that price, Kelly," said Mr. Lorillard in his princely fashion, expecting to see Kelly wilt and refuse to take the wager.

"Certainly, Mr. Lorillard." Then turning to his sheet writer, Kelly said: "$25,000 against $10,000, Pierre Lorillard." Quickly he turned to the tobacco magnate with a polite "Much obliged to you, Mr. Lorillard; very much obliged. Would you or your friends care to bet another $10,000 at the same odds? Should be delighted to accommodate you."

"What a nerve!" was all Mr. Lorillard could say as he turned on his heel and walked away.

Jimmy Kelly won the bet, for Lorillard's horse was beaten.—New York Times.

The Landlubber Ducks of Sahara.

The proverbial fondness of ducks for water would lead one to presuppose that of all the world the most destitute of ducks would be the Sahara desert and that if a stray "springtail" happened to drift into that region he would either vamoose or turn up his toes with briefest delay. Well, not at all," said a Frenchman who was formerly a resident of Tunis.

"There are parts of the desert where ducks abound, flourish and multiply with every evidence of perfect satisfaction. The fowl is slightly different from any of the varieties we know in this country, but it has the same flat bill, extensive breast and web feet, showing that it was once a water bird, though now it scarcely finds enough to drink and has become too provident to waste any of the precious fluid in ablutions. Like the other good Mussulmans of the country, they take their prescribed bath in the sand, and their web feet come in very handy as snowshoes to walk upon the deep yielding dust. It is claimed by an eminent French ornithologist that the Saharan ducks are the remains of a race of aquatic birds which frequented those seas when the present desert was a part of the Atlantic ocean."

MISSION BEGINS TONIGHT.

Will Continue Ten Days—Dr. F. E. J. Lloyd the Missioner.

The mission at St. Luke's church begins tonight with a service at half past seven o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Lloyd will address the congregation. He comes from an active parish in Cleveland where he has gained much success. His strong, simple presentations of the deeper truths of life are so stated that they appeal to many who otherwise are not affected by any ordinary religious service or meeting. The mission makes no direct appeal to the emotions and is not to be classed with the ordinary revival. It is the Episcopal church speaking to all the residents of Dixon. The Rev. Mr. Sage invites all to come, regardless of church affiliation. Honest doubters in religion, those unsettled because of the many church organizations offering their wares, those oppressed and discouraged, will be given an opportunity to ask questions and be courteously answered.

Dr. Sickels and the Shark.

There is no accounting for the growth of a fish story that travels 2,000 miles; but to relieve the minds of Dixon people who may hear the story we quote from the Los Angeles Times as authority for the following:

"Edward A. Sickels, M. D., of Dixon, Ill., made quite a killing yesterday, bringing in a jawfish weighing 178 pounds, and one of the largest sharks seen here for a long time. It measured ten feet in length and weighed 215 pounds."

The doctor and his wife came home from California Saturday noon and if he says the fish were larger than this, don't you believe him. We should think after catching the first he would consider he had enough for a meal, but there is no accounting for the appetite of a hungry sportsman.

Vehicle Damaged in Runaway.

While F. E. Stiteley was driving to the depot about 6 o'clock last evening, one side of the hills came down from the patent attachment holding them and frightened the horse. It started to run and in turning the corner from Monroe avenue into Third street the buggy was overturned. Mr. Stiteley leaped out without injury. The horse dragged the buggy across the street in front of the coal office of George Woodruff, where a large telephone pole caught the front axle, springing it badly. The horse was stopped by Mr. Woodruff. The vehicle belonged to A. I. Gage.

Married in Mendota.

Wm. Henkel and Miss Louisa Weber both of Brooklyn township, this county, were united in marriage by Rev. Father Tholen in the Catholic church in Mendota last Wednesday morning. After the wedding the happy couple met a large number of friends at the home of the bride's mother and enjoyed a merry feast.

FINISHED LEATHER.

HOW THE GREEN HIDE IS PREPARED FOR THE MARKET.

The Operation Is a Strange One From Beginning to End and Comprehends a Number of Different Manipulations by Expert Workers.

The making of leather is an art of which most people understand little. It can safely be said that this trade is one of the greatest and yet most obscure of all our industries. During the past few years it has assumed immense proportions.

The preliminary steps in tanning are by no means what you would call of an aesthetic nature. The hide as received in the rough state is covered with hair and bristles, which must be first removed. In order to do this properly the hide is thrown into a vat of warm soap water and left there for at least three days. At the end of that period, if found to be in a suitable condition, it is drawn out and run through a queer looking machine. This apparatus consists principally of three rollers. The largest one, a massive affair, revolves rapidly from right to left. The next one in size moves in the opposite direction from left to right and, unlike the first, is covered with small knives. These knives are not visible owing to the great velocity of the roller, it making over 1,800 revolutions a minute.

It takes but a second to run a hide through this press. The operator, a strong, determined looking individual, seizes the skin firmly with both hands, swings it around once or twice and then slips it dexterously between the great rollers. There is a muffled sound, and, presto, the skin falls out devoid of all flesh. The hide is then placed in a vat of lime water, where, under the action of the lime, the hair becomes soft and loose. In a day or so it is again taken out and sent to the press. This time the third and last roller, which is covered with small round stones, is used. These stones remove the hair in the same way as the knives did the flesh.

The hide is then given a thorough washing or sopping out. For this purpose a huge wooden barrel shaped apparatus called a "bater" is used. Within this biter are long projections made of hard wood. The skin rests upon these while the wheel revolves. As soon as a proper angle is reached the hide slides off and falls with great force to the bottom. Here it is once more picked up, carried to the top and dropped again. Thus the operation is continued until the hide becomes perfectly clean and spotless. It is then ready to be tanned. Great vats of dull, deep colored liquid are now utilized.

The making of this liquid is a process by itself. The bark, either oak or hemlock, is first broken up and ground into fine bits and then conveyed into huge tanks called "leeches." These tanks contain about three-fourths bark and one-fourth old liquid, or, in other words, liquid which has become weak owing to long usage. The mixture steeps for a number of days, long enough at any rate for the liquid to regain its strength. It is then strained and allowed to run into different vats. The old liquid in turn flows back to the leeches. In this manner the old is made new and the new old.

The next step is called "shaving." This consists in tearing off the edges of the hide and making the surface smooth. A small, knife covered wheel having a great velocity does the work quickly, but not satisfactorily. Each hide must be gone over again by hand. This is called "currying" and is one of the most difficult operations in the act of tanning. The "currier," in fact, must have been raised in the business. A long, fierce looking knife is used. Taking this in both hands, he bends over the skin, which lies before him on a thick board, and with skillful strokes removes what the machine has left, besides giving the surface a most beautiful grain. To do this rapidly and still keep the razorlike edge on the blade requires years of practice.

The hides are then washed, weighed, pressed and ready to be "stuffed" on the floor above. The "stuffing" wheel is a mammoth wooden tank about 10 feet by 20 feet, with a capacity of from 200 to 300 pounds. It is here where the grease and fatty substances which have been removed from the hide in the various processes are restored. As the tanner says, "Life is given in." Were it not for this grease the hide would be dry, hard and easily torn. It is here also where profit and loss figure the most. The tanner depends entirely upon his judgment as to the amount of fat to be added; too much or too little, and untold damage would result.

The skin now passes through the final stage. It is "stretched" and sent to the "finishing" room, where it is made ready for the market. This last step consists in blacking and glossing one side and imparting a fine grain to the other. The process is then completed. Thus a fleshy, hair covered hide is made into a beautiful piece of leather.

The operation is a strange one from beginning to end. If you ever have the time, visit a tannery and see for yourself.—Kansas City Times.

Food and Force.

The best nourished individual, other things being equal, is the strongest and most useful, and the best fed nations, other things being equal, are those which lead the progress of the world.

An abundance of food is to be regarded as the essential foundation for all individual, social, economic and national aggrandizement.—Dr. Wiley in Everybody's Magazine.

The Trouble.

"What's the matter with you lately? Has she thrown you over?" "No; that's just what she refuses to do."—Town and Country.

WORKING IN PUBLIC.

Show Window Artisans Can Command Good Remuneration.

A Broadway shoe manufacturer was asked what method of advertising he found most profitable.

"Placing my men near the window," he said, "so they can work in view of the public. I don't know of anything that catches the attention of the passer-by more quickly than the sight of a demonstrator sitting close to the window running a machine for dear life."

"Manufacturers of all kinds of goods have adopted this plan. Waistmakers put their most skilled workers on exhibition to show how the finest garments are cut and sewed. Cigar manufacturers take the public into their confidence and let them see the process of rolling as performed by the cleverest hands. Men who deal in mechanical contrivances have found that it pays to have at least one machine set up near a window so the crowd outside may observe the intricacy of its parts and the rapidity of its action. Jewelers have stationed their most expert lapidaries within view of the street that possible customers may see how precious stones are cut and polished and set."

"It isn't everybody who can work in public. It takes a person with good strong nerves and concentration of thought to do difficult work in a show window. I have men in my employ who are excellent workers, but they get flustered when subjected to unusual surveillance and ruin everything they put their hands to. I have tried some of them as window operators, but they can't get used to it."

"A man who can run a machine at full tilt or paint a picture or fry pancakes or iron a shirt in the full gaze of the public eye and not lose his head is an artist and worth several dollars more a week to his employer than the more modest individual. And he gets it too."—New York Spn.

Taking Sunday Collections.

An old and not yet obsolete mode of taking a collection in a Scotch church is by means of a ladle—a small wooden box at the end of a straight wooden shaft about four and a half feet long, the top of the box being sufficiently open to receive contributions of money. For all special collections this was the usual mode in the chief churches of Edinburgh when I was a boy at school there 50 years ago, but it has gradually gone out of fashion and is not often to be seen nowadays.

For ordinary Sunday collections the general custom has been to have a metal plate or basin on a small table at the church entrance superintended by an elder—a mode which was often called the brod. When ladies are used, they are handed round the congregation by elders after the sermon or after the last psalm, and the common Scotch phrase to "lift" the collection may have come from this custom.—Notes and Queries.

Some Queer Verdicts.

What is "a reasonable state of intoxication" apparently just missed precise definition by a coroner's jury in Mississippi which stated in its verdict that "we, the jury, find that deceased came to his death by a stroke of an east bound train, No. 204, on I. C. Railroad, at Fortress, Miss., in Choctaw county, he being in a reasonable state of intoxication."

A somewhat similar indefiniteness of legal conclusion mars a verdict of a neighboring Georgia jury to the effect that "we, the jury, find the defendant almost guilty."

Equally as uncertain and ambiguous as these statements by laymen is the opinion in an early Maryland case which "acknowledges the corn" by saying that an occurrence referred to took place "at a former sitting when the court was full."

Too Liberal.

Wife—Here's an advertisement in the paper that you'd better look into. It says a man is wanted, and he won't be worked to death, and he'll get paid enough to live on.

Husband—Says he won't be worked to death, eh? Wife—Yes; and they promise pay enough to live on. Husband—Some catch about that!—Pick-Me-Up.

Mary's Fractious Sister.

"I suppose your baby sister cries some?" asked one of the neighbors. "Cries!" said Mary. "Why, she just seems to look on the dark side of things all the time!"—Youth's Companion.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

Baby Trees.

When it is young and small, a baby tree is just as unlike its big mother and father trees as the tiniest baby is unlike its mother or father.

Trees grow from seeds, and the seeds of very many trees are called nuts. You all know the hazelnut, and the chestnut, and the beechnut, and the acorn, don't you?

I was lying in a wood the other day when I saw a little brown beechnut standing right up among the grass. I pulled at it very carefully, and up it came, with a long stalk with a little root attached.

Then I looked again and saw another little plant with a little stalk and two little green leaves. This was another baby beech, a wee bit bigger, and if I hadn't known I couldn't have told it was a beech at all, for the two seed leaves, as they are called, are quite a different shape and much thicker than the other leaves.

I looked again, and there was another baby beech, a little older again, with, above the two seed leaves, two more leaves, and these leaves were just like big beech leaves, only very fresh and green. And the next baby beech had dropped its two seed leaves and had four purple leaves, two above the others.

On the Alert For Opportunities.

In no other country in the world are the possibilities for successful careers so great as in the United States.

If you want more salary, all you have to do is to make yourself worth more—fill your place so full that it will run over, and you will soon be in a larger place. Do your work so efficiently that everybody about you will remark it and be sure that your superior will soon find it out. The man whose ambition is just to do a fair day's work will never get very high up in life. It is the man who tries to see how much he can do, how well he can fill his place, that rises.

Every employer is on the lookout for marked merit, and even if he does not recognize your superior efforts others will, and you will soon find your proper place.—American Boy.

Feeling For Him.

Mark came home with a very long face, and Uncle Josiah, noticing it, said:

"Mark, you are in trouble of some sort. I can see it in your face. I feel for you, my boy, and always do when you are that way."

"Much obliged, Uncle Josiah," said Mark, "but I wish you could feel for me tomorrow. I left school today at recess, and the teacher's sure to use the ruler on me in the morning."

Fresh Air Fund Boys.

The accompanying picture shows why eight boys from the west side tenement house district, thin and pale faced, sent into the country under the auspices of The Tribune fresh air fund, returned home fat and rosy cheeked. They went to Danby, Vt., where they were entertained in a small cottage in the midst of the rockribbed heights of the Green mountains. There they played ed on the hillsides, paddled in the streams, built dams and fished in the shaded pools and assisted in driving the cattle home at milking time. Perhaps the boys were not so ill acquainted with the habits of cows as the fresh air boy who asked his host as he stood looking at the cows lying in the shade in the pasturage chewing their cud if he had to buy chewing gum for all the cows.—New York Tribune.

Dangerous Tree In a Storm.

Interesting observations made in Germany show that the oak is the most dangerous tree that one can seek shelter under during a thunderstorm. Out of 268 trees struck by lightning in the parks at Dippel, in that country, 159 were oak trees, 21 were beech, 20 were pine, 59 were fir, 4 were birch and 5 were ash. In other words, more than half the trees struck were oak, while not quite one-fourth were fir.

The Lotus.

The lotus, supposed to be the Rose of Sharon spoken of in the Bible, was a blue or white water plant held sacred in Egypt as typifying the creation of the world and was sacred to the gods Ostris and Isis. It has been successfully transplanted into some of our own Atlantic states.

A Small Boy's Growl.

Why can't boys get to be men 'Thout taking time to grow. And want's the good of baby shoes And skirts, I'd like to know?

Why can't I have some reg'lar pants, The kind with pockets in. And what's the good of horses when They are all made of tin?

And why do folks 'most always say: "Look out!" "Be careful, dear!" It's not much fun to be a boy When people are so queer!

COMBINE IS NOT IDLE

Expects to Succeed in Consolidating the Coal Mines of This State.

RASH DEED OF A DESPERATE WIDOW

Vain Speculation on a Supreme Court Decision—Blind, but Efficient "Hello Girl."

Springfield, Ills., Oct. 21.—Another effort is being made to consolidate the coal mines of the Springfield sub-district. C. H. Randle, representing Chicago and eastern capitalists, already has secured options on most of the mining property in and around Springfield, and he expects to be able to take hold of practically every mine in the sub-district within a short time. While considerable secrecy is observed in the movement, it is understood that J. Pierpont Morgan is interested in the deal, and that the promoters are the same capitalists who engineered the recent consolidation of coal mines in Indiana. The options secured by Randle do not expire until next February. Operators who have given options on their mines place little credence in the prospective consolidation.

Tried to Follow Her Husband.

Springfield, Ills., Oct. 21.—Mrs. Robert Whittle, whose husband, formerly of Effingham, and a switchman in the Illinois Central yards, committed suicide in his wife's presence at the Humboldt hotel, this city, last Monday, by taking laudanum, because he was compelled to give up his position by reason of ill health, herself attempted to follow her husband by taking laudanum. Though but 26 years old, Whittle was her third husband, she having secured divorces from Wilt Westbrooke, liverman, of Taylorville, her first husband, and John Duncan, an Illinois Central switchman, of this city, her second husband. The cause of her attempt was that debts were overwhelming her. She will recover.

Something That Nobody Knows.

Springfield, Ills., Oct. 21.—Reports are in circulation here and are going out from here to the effect that the supreme court is about to sustain Judge Thompson's decision in the famous mandamus case brought by the Teachers' Federation of Chicago to compel the state board of equalization to assess the capital stock of certain corporations on a different basis than that adopted by the state board last year. There is no truth in such reports—no foundation for them. Nobody in Springfield knows what the supreme court's decision will be.

FAIR BLIND TELEPHONE OPERATOR

Only Slight "Hello Girl." It Is Claimed, in the United States.

Mattoon, Ills., Oct. 21.—Miss Abbie Downing, 23 years old, of Metcalfe, Edgar county, enjoys the unique distinction of being the only blind telephone operator in the country. Three weeks ago Miss Downing began to learn the switchboard of the Metcalfe telephone and is now ranked as one of the most expert operators the company has ever had. The Metcalfe exchange operates sixty telephones, besides a toll board. It is operated by two girls, who divide the day into shifts. During her hours Miss Downing has charge of the office exclusively. She locates a call by the sound of the "drop," or, if busy and does not hear the warning click, by hastily passing over the board her nimble fingers. Miss Downing graduated from the Indianapolis School for the Blind in 1903. She can perform all household duties, cook, sew by hand or on machine and do fancy work. She is a musician and has taught music. Miss Downing keeps trace of telephone toll charges by an accurate system and her books are a marvel of neatness.

They left him on the railroad track and he no doubt lay down and was run over by a train.

OLD YALE IS CELEBRATING

The 200th Anniversary of the Founding of the College Is the Occasion.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 21.—Yale university began Saturday the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the founding of Yale college. The bicentennial of the great institution of learning was ushered in with cere-

ENTRANCE TO BATTELL CHAPEL, YALE. montes essentially religious. The services were performed in accord with the devout and reverent traditions of old New England days, when the little handful of clergymen gathered together and with prayerful supplications asked divine blessing upon the institution which they had conceived and brought forth.

The city, proud in its function as a seat of learning, had bedecked itself in Yale's colors and presented a splendid spectacle. Blue draperies were intertwined with new cut evergreen and this general scheme of color was broken only by the graceful folds of the stars and stripes. Within Battell chapel, where the bicentennial was inaugurated, the services were participated in by an assemblage as imposing as the exercises were simple. Among those present were President Hadley, ex-President Timothy Dwight, Rev. Joseph Twitwell, Thomas J. Bennett, Hon. Henry Howland (of New York) and Rev. Charles Ray Palmer. The seats were filled with Yale graduates. Special services in honor of the day were held in other churches of the city and some notable sermons were preached.

GREAT FIRE IN CAPE BRETON

Town of Sydney Almost Swept Out of Existence With a Loss of $500,000.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 21.—The prosperous town of Sydney, Cape Breton, was almost swept out of existence Saturday by a fierce conflagration which started about 2 p. m. The flames, which were fanned by a forty-five-mile gale, swept through the principal business portions of the town, causing ruin and devastation.

The only thing that saved the city from total destruction was a heavy rain which set in after dark, and as the wind decreased in fury the firemen and hundreds of miners succeeded in getting the fire under control. Over sixty buildings are in ashes, and many more are badly scorched. The buildings were nearly all large wooden structures.

The fire is supposed to have been started by the bursting of an oil stove. The loss is roughly placed at between $400,000 and $500,000, of which not more than half is covered by insurance.

Fatal Collision at Grosse Isle.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 21.—The tug Samuel J. Christian, of Toledo, was struck by the big Gilchrist freighter John J. Harlow, the cook and a fireman, whose names are unknown, but all of Toledo, were drowned.

LUCK GOOD AND BAD.

SOME SIGNS AND OMENS THAT ARE ATTENDANT THEREON.

Queer Superstitions That Take Root In the Mind of Man, With Some Observations on the Way They Work Themselves Out.

Superstition is the one thing that Christian and unbeliever unite in attacking; yet, despite the onslaught of pulpit, press and platform, it survives, not perhaps as openly, but none the less strongly, even if shamefacedly feared.

The Witch of Endor may be but a classical remembrance, and civilization may have convinced the Salemites of the futility of the brand and the fagot as an exorcising medium, but few of us have not some hoodoo or some belief, however slight, in fate and fortune.

The literature of superstition as expressed in the proverbs of every land is not usually given the attention it deserves. These maxims, representing the tested and accumulated experience of mankind, have had their effectiveness destroyed by familiarity. But take the majority of the aphorisms, and it is not difficult to trace them back to a superstitious origin or forward to a superstitious moral.

"The more haste the less speed" finds expression in the belief that it is unlucky to turn back from a journey. The individual who has been half way to his work with a few minutes to spare and has had to turn back for some essential he had forgotten realized the ill luck when he was "docked" for being late. The man who hurries to catch a train or to see a show and leaves his money or his ticket in his other clothes also adorns the illustration.

If a man walks under a ladder and the careless painter above upsets the paint pot upon him, the victim promptly forgets both his religious teaching and his materialistic reasoning, and all the preachers in the world could not convince him that it was not unlucky to do as he had done.

Spilling a box of matches is a sure sign of a row in many households. If it is the man of the house who does the spilling, the row doesn't tarry on the way while he picturesquely blames his better half for leaving them upside down or placing them in an awkward corner. Spilling the salt was long regarded as so unlucky that unsplittable salt shakers were invented to dodge it.

The cat has long been the symbolic superstitious animal. The black cat which crosses the path of the pedestrian brings him ill luck. This is especially true if the threatened victim tries to ward it off by shooting the cat back to its lair. With one's eyes on the cat one may easily trip up on obstructions and break a leg or a neck. But the cat is not always an omen of evil. If he or she squats at your door and meows lustily at night, it means good luck to all within the house. To chase such a cat away is to chase away one's luck. It is terrible to think of the amount of luck that has been chased away.

The dropping of a knife in many houses is regarded as so certain an indication of the arrival of a man at the house that preparations are at once made to evade the ice collector and the installment man or to be out when the tax collector calls. The dropping of a fork equally foretells the visit of a woman, and the lady of the house immediately darts to her boudoir to primp up.

All people do not know that the dropping of a comb while combing the hair indicates that the person dropping it will soon hear of a death. An instance of this occurred not long ago. The comb was dropped on a Tuesday. Friday a friend of the family, writing from Ohio, incidentally mentioned the death of the mother of the grocer the family used to buy from. The comb was thus corroborated, despite the fact that the deceased was otherwise entirely unknown.

The barking or howling of a dog at night is a sign of death. It ought to be that of the dog. An old lady was much concerned over the fate of somebody because of a dog howling under her window one night and expressed her convictions that it meant something unfortunate. During the day she triumphantly pointed out in a newspaper the account of a man dying in Philadelphia.

For a friend to meet or pass you and not recognize you means that you will be married within a year. The fact that you are already married does not matter presumably. You must get a divorce and make the prediction good. Fortunately this axiom is more honored in the breach than in the observance.

Opening an umbrella in the house is unlucky. Any person who has hoisted his or her umbrella in the house and in so doing has knocked off a lamp globe or shade never doubted the wisdom of the proverb maker. Dropping an umbrella presages a disappointment. He who has tried to brush the mud off has many of them before he gets it cleaned again. There is, however, no ill luck attached to dropping the subject.—Kansas City Times.

Uncalled For Remarks.

A city man wrote to the editor of a horticultural paper asking what plants would be suitable additions to drier grasses for winter ornaments.

The editor replied:

"Acroclitum, A. album, Gomphrena globosa and Groseum globosa carnea."

When the man read this, he fairly boiled over with rage and immediately sent a note ordering his paper to be discontinued. He said that an editor who swore in that way just because he was asked a simple question should have no support from him.—London Standard.

SHE RE-ENTERS SOCIETY.

Mrs. John W. Mackay and the Portrait Painted by Meissonier.

After five years of mourning for her son, whose tragic death in a riding accident was a severe blow to the mother, Mrs. John W. Mackay, wife of the bonanza king of California, has just resumed the lavish entertaining of fashionable London society, which has given her a position of supremacy in the best circles of the British metropolis. An interesting and beautiful woman, whose rise from laundress and boarding house keeper to a leading place in the smartest society is perhaps more remarkable than the luck of her husband, Mrs. Mackay is talked about as much for her wonderful personality as for her entertainments. Five years ago her dinners and receptions, at which she presided with the grace of a duchess, were the events of the month in London. The palatial home of the Mackays in Carlton House terrace, with its $400,000 marble staircase, was then the scene of some of the most notable gatherings of the season, and the personages who were accustomed to unfailing attendance upon these events are showing much interest in their resumption. The accompanying portrait of Mrs. Mackay is a reproduction of the famous painting of her by Meissonier.

MRS. MACKAY, BY MEISSONIER.

The Unathletic Southerner.

In the east, the north and the west the proportion of athletic women is far above the proportion here, confesses the Atlanta Journal. Just why the southern woman has never picked up physical culture is a mystery. Society women of the north and east are, speaking in a general sense, sturdier, stronger and have broader shoulders than the society women of the south. This is due to swimming, tennis, golf, horseback riding and wheeling, carried to that extent which would surprise most women here.

Innate modesty of the southern woman may have something to do with her persistent refusal to place herself on a footing with her brothers in sports and athletics, but that seems improbable. There is no good reason to give, but the fact remains. In Atlanta there are possibly not more than four or five who play tennis moderately well, there are not more than half a dozen who play golf, very few who wheel and still fewer who join in other outdoor amusements.

In southern summer resorts these things are largely unheard of. In eastern resorts—Newport, Saratoga, Narragansett, Lenox and such places—the women spend nearly all their time outdoors. That seems to be one of the inherent differences between the southern and eastern women.

Asparagus Decoration.

A plant of Asparagus plumosus gives the housewife something upon which she can always depend for the beautifying of her table. We have no plant with more delicate foliage. It is really fairylike in its exquisite daintiness. With a few sprays of it all that is needed to make it an ideal table ornament are a few bright flowers. Half a dozen long stemmed carnations, no matter what their color, harmonize most perfectly—better than roses, for these flowers require some of their own foliage to bring out their charm fully, and this does not harmonize well with the feathery delicacy which characterizes the asparagus. As a rule, the flowers used in combination with this plant ought to be without foliage of their own. It is a plant not at all difficult to grow. It likes a soil of sandy loam, well drained, plenty of water when growing, but not a great deal at other times; a partially shaded place and frequent showerings with clear water to keep the red spider from injuring it. Its foliage is very persistent.

How to Wear Jewels.

Women have of late improved in their manner of wearing jewels, and those of good birth and breeding realize that, whatever the craze of the moment, a display of mixed jewelry in the morning is not in the best style, says The Evening Star. Although any amount of it is being worn, the choice must rest with the discretion of the wearer, who, if she be wise, will not mix jewelry of different periods or stones of various colors, for here, as in fabrics, harmony is the first thing to be considered.

Danish Exhibit in London.

There is a scheme on foot in Denmark for a Danish exhibition in London next year or whenever the coronation of the king and queen of England takes place. A special feature is to be a department in which a collection of things will be exhibited connected with the childhood and youth of Queen Alexandra.

HARD ON THE NERVES

RUNNING TRAINS OVER MOUNTAIN ROADS IS RISKY WORK.

It Takes Youth and Strength and Courage to Hold an Engineer's Job on One of These Brain Whirling, Nerve Racking Runs.

"One of the greatest difficulties of the real mountain roads, like the Colorado Midland, the Rio Grande Western and the Denver and Rio Grande, is in getting engineers," said the city passenger agent of the Rio Grande Western road. This gentleman is familiar with all the intermountain roads, where the trains have to all but fly to reach some of their destinations.

"One might suppose that all roads would look alike to the experienced engineer, but they don't. Along some of the prairie roads an engineer can take a run on any new track almost as well as on one he has traveled for years and knows with his eyes shut. But here in the west it is different. Down in Colorado, where are some of the greatest monuments to the railroad builder that have ever been erected, an engineer has to travel over the roads sometimes for weeks with old, experienced engineers who know the track before he will be trusted with a train. It isn't a question of engineering ability; merely one of experience.

"It is enough to take a fellow's nerve to sweep around some of those mountain curves and passes for the first time. Some good men never take more than their first ride. I have seen engineers come from the east, men of gilt edge character and ability, who lost their nerve with the first trip and took the first train for a flatter country. Dizzy reverse curves, trestles that seem to totter in the wind, precipices that seem to yawn for a fellow's life and grades that are a revelation of horror to the newcomer crowd in bewildering confusion on the view, and unless a fellow is as stolid as an ox or as nervous as the mischief he is apt to lose his head.

"You would be surprised at the number of young engineers who are on the mountain roads. For one thing, a man does not last there as he does on a less picturesque, more prosaic run. It takes youth and strength and courage of a rare order to stand it all. The companies are the most appreciative in the world, for they realize how hard it is to get a good man, and they treat a good man right royally. But even this does not attract a surplus of the right sort.

"The principal dangers are in the heavy grades and in the sharp curves, though landslides are far from unknown. One must know his train and his road like a book to get through with his life on the Marshall pass, for instance, where you seem to plunge headlong down the mighty hill. A rock on the track, a broken wheel, a runaway car or a failure of the brakes to work would end in a smash up that would startle the whole country. The hill might be a glare of ice or frost, it might be wet or snowy, and if you set the airbrake too hard so as to start the wheels sliding down the hill you go like a gigantic toboggan, with death and destruction at the end of the ride. The management of the airbrake and knowing where the curves and dangerous places are is the greatest part of an engineer's education in the mountains.

"For my own part, knowing the dangers as I do, I feel nervous after riding 100 miles over the wildest parts of the roads even as a passenger. I rode through the Royal gorge on the engine a few weeks ago and was glad when the ride was over. It makes a fellow feel trembly like to think what might be, though the worst rarely happens. Such is the care taken in equipment and in getting the best men that the mountain roads have as small a proportion of losses as the dead level roads of the plains. But it takes a man of nerve to pilot a train through some of the wilder regions.

"A freight train is the worst, in that it is much heavier than a passenger and is expected to make almost the same time. All the heavy stock trains going east, 25 to 30 cars, make passenger schedule. A freight is so loosely coupled as to be very unmanageable at critical points. The stock trains are the terror of the engine drivers and all the trainmen.

"A fellow isn't necessarily a coward when he throws up his job as engineer over the mountain roads, after seeing what the dangers are. Not one passenger in 10,000 would assume the same danger. The position calls for absolutely steady nerve, and one who feels that he is likely to get rattled is dangerous to himself, to the company and to all who ride behind him. A man must think and act like lightning in the face of so many dangers that he must be sure of his ability to stand the strain. No one stays any great number of years. It is beyond one's power to do so and be safe. A man may be brave and willing and all that, but these are not enough. He must be sure and proof against stampede. Such a man is worth everything to the companies, and they treat him like a prince."—Butte Inter-Mountain.

Fame and fortune await the ingenious horticulturist who can succeed in producing a flower that is entirely black, a problem that has hitherto defied the efforts that have been made in that direction for more than three centuries past, for, notwithstanding the sensational novel of Alexandre Dumas, entitled "The Black Tulip," there is no such thing as a really black flower in existence, although almost every color and shade of the rainbow is present in flowers and blossoms.

Deceitful.

Special to the TELEGRAPH.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21—By crawling under the post office 300 feet and drilling through the plate steel vault, burglars secured stamps valued at $76 to $80.
Owing to miscalculation, the cashier's vault containing between $600,000 and largest in the history of the postal department. There is no clew to the robbers. Postmaster Coyne suspects postoffice employees of being parties to
